AFL SETTLES WEST COAST SHIP WALKOUT

Conciliator Announces Union Removes Last Barrier to Strike's End.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23 — A federal conciliator announced early today the AFL Masters, Mates and Pilots had voted to return to work, removing the last barrier to settlement of the 54-day West Coast maritime strike.

The conciliator, Omar F. Haskins, said Captain C. F. Mas, president of the West Coast local of the masters and mates informed him the vote was 1,123 to 980 to accept working conditions reached in negotiations with the Pacific American Shipowners association.

Hoskins said the coastwise acceptance by the MMP of the agreement removed the last major barrier to complete resumption of shipping activities on the west coast.

CIO Agreed Earlier

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union and the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association (both CIO) reached an accord with employers earlier this week, but work had been held up pending settlement of the MMP dispute.

Hoskins called a meeting for 1 p. m. today for signing the agreement between the shipowners' association and the deck officers' union and predicted crews would be dispatched to their vessels by noon today.

Picket lines established by the MMP on western waterfronts, crossed in some instances by CIO union members in efforts to return to work yesterday, will be withdrawn shortly after the pact is signed, the conciliator said.

Grants Increase

The agreement, Hoskins said, grants the masters and mates a 15 per cent wage increase and a union security clause providing seniority rights, nondiscrimination and consideration of union members in hiring deck officers for offshore vessels.

Overtime pay was boosted 35 cents an hour to $1.60, the night relief rate was set at $1.50 an hour, and there was "an increase in the pilot rate and other changes I cannot enumerate now," said Hoskins.

The MMP had sought PASA acceptance of a preferential hiring clause granted to east and gulf coast locals of the deck officers' union in a compromise settlement of strikes there several weeks ago. But the PASA had steadfastly refused to grant the clause, which the ship owners said would take selection of ship's officers out of their hands.

The West Coast maritime tieup began Oct. 1 when the CIO engineers and longshoremen walked out in support of higher pay and union security demands. The AFL MMP also declined to work.

Except for scattered handling of foreign registry vessels, the CIO longshoremen declined to cross the MMP picket lines to resume work.

Hope To Bring Most Seriously Hurt Out by Nightfall.

By The Associated Press

MEIRINGEN, SWITZERLAND, Nov. 23—The vanguard of a mountaineer rescue squad ploughed through treacherous snowdrifts and reached the U. S. army's wrecked C-53 in the Swiss Alps today. They immediately began preparations to bring the 11 marooned Americans down from the 8,000-foot glacial bowl.

Brig. Gen. Ralph Snavely, directing rescue operations for the U. S. army, announced two Alpinists had reached the wreck scene this afternoon and that about 50 more mountain climbers were close behind.

Brig. Gen. Ralph Tate, deputy commander of U. S. forces in Austria, said the passengers most seriously sick or injured would be the first to be brought down. He expressed hope they would reach a hut halfway down the mountainside by tonight.

"We don't know how many are injured, or how seriously, but in any event we can't expect any of them down here (in the valley) before tomorrow," Tate said.

Placed on Special Train

When the injured finally are brought down into the valley, they will be placed on a special train, and "we hope they will be taken to an army hospital in Munich," Tate said.

"They have been up there more than four days now, and undoubtedly are suffering from shock and exposure."

The C-53, on a trip from Munich to Pisa, crash-landed Tuesday near the steep, 11,000-foot Strahlegg peak in the heart of the Bernese Oberland, an area laced with innumerable treacherous crevasses. The peak is 13 miles southeast of Interlaken, and just northeast of the mighty Jungfrau.

The wives of generals Tate and Snavely and an 11-year-old girl were among the seven passengers. Tate's son, Capt. Ralph Tate Jr., piloted the C-53. Gen. Tate said he talked with his son by telephone and was told all had survived the ordeal.

The passengers were Brig. Gen. Loyal M. Haynes, head of the advisory board of U. S. forces in Austria; Mrs. Haynes; Col. William C. McMahon, retiring chief of staff, U. S. forces in Austria, his wife and their daughter, Mary Alice; Mrs. Tate and Mrs. Snavely. The crew members as announced at Vienna were Capt. Tate; 2nd Lt. Irving Mathews of Richmond, Va., co-pilot; Sgt. Lewis G. Hill, Portales, N. M., radio operator, and S/Sgt. Wayne G. Folsom of Postville, Iowa.

Resembles Huge Snake

Silhouetted against the snow, the rescue party looked like a huge snake as it crept slowly ahead over the snow-clad glacier. Newly fallen snow hid many crevasses and the mountaineers, roped together, ventured forward at the peril of their lives.

The lead man in the party had to work his way forward at times by crawling on his belly while his companions dug in to hold him in case the snow should give way beneath him. When the lead Alpinist reached the end of the rope, he in turn dug in to hold while the second member of the party followed with equal caution. The operation was repeated until the entire group had been pulled forward another few yards.

Gen. Snavely said the vanguard of the Alpine rescue squad reached the scene of the crash at 2:21 p. m. (8:21 a. m. EST).

Medicine Flown In

(A European Air Transport Service hospital plane took off just before 8 a. m. EST for Interlaken, Switzerland, with medicine for the victims. The plane carried two nurses and two medical corpsmen.)

(In the United States the army prepared to fly to the scene a helicopter equipped with special rotor blades designed for use in high altitudes.

Improved weather was helping the rescue party of about 65 members retarded last night by rain and snow. The rescuers carried a dozen collapsible stretchers. By tonight they hoped to move the injured to a ski hut about half way down the tortuous descent to a valley.

One Reports 12 Aboard

Gen. Snavely, who flew over the spot with Tate yesterday, said 12 persons had been aboard the C-53 when it crash landed Tuesday enroute from Munich to Pisa and that eight of them were severely injured.

(Snavely's headquarters in Vienna Wednesday listed 11 persons as having been aboard the plane.)

Tate said crewmen of the stranded plane were firing rockets into the skies to guide their rescuers, who, roped together, were scaling a treacherous 30-degree slope of the Rosenlaui glacier.

The rockets were dropped over the scene yesterday by search planes after the ship was found nosed up against a mountaintop 10,000 feet high.

Injured Not Known

Snavely said the identities of the injured were not known. The passenger list included both Mrs. Snavely and Mrs. Tate, mother of the pilot.

"We know there are four survivors—I actually saw them with my own eyes," he said.

The four men were around the

FLOORED IN COURTROOM

Columbian Defendant Felled by Blow from State Attorney's Fist.

By The Associated Press

ATLANTA, Nov. 23—Assistant Attorney General Dan Duke floored with his fist President Emory C. Burke of the anti-Negro anti-Jewish Columbians, Inc., today in the Fulton county court house after they engaged in a verbal altercation.

Burke sustained a gash over his eye in the clash which occurred after he and his attorney had been conferring with two judges over a suit being handled for the state by Duke to revoke the charter of the Columbianians.

"Taken All I Can"

"Dad blame it, I've taken all I can from you," Duke shouted and landed the single blow that dropped Burke, dazed and his face covered with blood to the floor. Bailiffs a moment before had made an unsuccessful effort to separate the two as they argued.

Later Duke said that his blow landed on Burke's head and that he struck after Burke made a remark "which I interpreted as intended to imply that I was not an Anglo-Saxon American." The assistant attorney general said he regretted the incident and that he had told court attaches he would pay the hospital bill.

Extension Granted

The clash came just after Superior Judge E. E. Pomeroy had granted Burke and his attorney another extension of six days in which to answer the state's attack on the Columbianian charter.

Recovering a second after he hit the floor, Burke rested on a sofa and then suddenly shook a long, bony finger at Duke and yelled "you'll answer for this." His attorney quieted him with a reminder that they still were in court.

Judge Pomeroy said he "was considering" action against both Duke and Burke.

U. S., Britain Face Final UN Veto Showdown with Russia

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—The United States and Britain faced a showdown with Russia today over their efforts to limit use of the veto in the United Nations security council, and new difficulties hindered progress on the drafting of European peace settlements.

As the Big Four foreign ministers council wound up its third week of peace-making sessions, this was the tangled diplomatic situation:

1. France served notice that she was standing firm on her demand for internationalization of the German Ruhr and believes that, contrary to the American view, the political future of Germany should be mapped before its economic problems are solved. German discussions are still to be undertaken by the foreign ministers.

2. The veto issue, which the foreign ministers have lifted out of United Nations debate temporarily, was slated for discussion at 3:30 p. m.. Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov was expected to respond at that time to British and American proposals for big power agreements voluntarily to limit use of the veto. Most diplomats foresaw Soviet disapproval in view of Russia's hard and fast opposition to any veto modifications.

3. Following the veto talks, in which China joins with the Big Four, Molotov, Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Deputy Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville were slated to resume their arguments over the kind of government to set up for the proposed free territory of Trieste.

This is the central issue with which they have struggled since they first met three weeks ago. Until they agree there can be no Italian peace treaty—and beyond the Italian treaty lie pacts for the Balkan states and Finland, and the whole problem of the German peace settlement.

While plans for a Trieste government are slowly being whipped into shape, the single most controversial question left appears to be Molotov's demand for an agreement that British, American and Yugoslav troops be withdrawn from Trieste three months after the Italian treaty is signed.

Bevin and Byrnes flatly oppose this, claiming it might leave Trieste without security forces at a critical juncture. Byrnes offered a compromise formula last night to guarantee withdrawal of troops when the governor of Trieste notified the UN security council that he no longer needed them. Molotov, holding out for a flat deadline, said this was unacceptable.

PITTSBURGH STEEL FEELS COAL STRIKE

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23—The effects of the nation's soft coal strike on the steel industry were felt today with the shutting down of five blast furnaces by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., largest of the U. S. Steel Corporation subsidiaries.

Two other furnaces, in the Edgar Thompson and Duquesne Works, were banked yesterday for repairs and will not be reopened until the flow of coal increases. Furnaces shut down today were in the Edgar Thompson, Duquesne, Clairton, Homestead and Youngstown, Ohio, plants.

A spokesman for the Jones and Laughlin Corp. said that no furnaces in their plants would be banked over the week-end, but that no decision had been made as to operation next week.

Steel ingot production for the district next week was expected to be scheduled at about 73 per cent as against this week's 102.3 per cent of the theoretical capacity. Meantime, the Carnegie-Illinois Corp. was not contemplating any immediate layoff of workers.

Pittsburgh 53-Day Hotel Strike Ends

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23—The steel city's eight major hotels accepted reservations today for the first time in 53 days, following settlement of a strike of 1,300 AFL-affiliated service workers for higher pay.

The work stoppage ended last night when members of the hotel and restaurant workers alliance and the bartenders union voted to accept a compromise wage offer.

The bartenders get a $7 weekly increase to $57, under the agreement while the hotel and restaurant workers receive a 60 cent hourly minimum.

Tipped employes will receive eight cents an hour over previous pay while non-tipped workers will get 12 cents additional.

Banks To Mail Yule Club Checks Of $185,000 Soon

Within the next two weeks, checks totaling approximately $185,000 will be mailed to 3,100 Christmas club members in the Marion area.

Local banks reported today they were prepared to begin mailing out the checks the first week in December. The funds represent Christmas club members savings during the past year.

Total accounts in the three banks are approximately $14,000 higher than last year, bank employes said.

The checks will put additional funds in the purses of Marion's Christmas shoppers for the coming season. A majority of the retailers have indicated they will start their Christmas schedules by remaining open next Wednesday afternoon, according to a report from the Chamber of Commerce. Thereafter, retailers will remain open each Wednesday afternoon until after Christmas. On Dec. 20, 21 and 23 most retailers will stay open in the evenings. They will close Christmas eve at 5:30.

NEWARKITE, SHOT IN FARM QUARREL, DIES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 23—Col. Clell Perkins, former chief veterinary in the European war theater, died this morning at University hospital of wounds Sheriff William McElroy of Licking county said were inflicted from a shotgun in the hands of a tenant farmer during a quarrel over wheat planting.

The sheriff reported yesterday that Jesse Sweeney, 50, admitted wounding the 60-year-old retired army officer at close range on Perkins' 225-acre farm near Johnstown.

Sheriff McElroy filed a first degree murder charge against Sweeney in Newark shortly before noon. His arraignment was set for Monday before Municipal Judge Harvey J. Alexander.

McElroy said Sweeney maintained he fired only after he was threatened with a "large steel rule." Filing of charges was delayed pending outcome of Perkins' wounds.

The argument began when Perkins sought to keep Sweeney from planting the remainder of a field partly seeded, the sheriff said.

Perkins obtained a court order restraining Sweeney from additional planting. The colonel previously was granted an eviction order against Sweeney, effective next March 1. Perkins resided at Johnstown, west of Newark.

2 IN HOSPITAL AFTER FIRE

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 23—Two unidentified women were taken to a hospital today after scores of elderly guests fled a fire in the 108-year-old Cody hotel, a landmark of the western Michigan lumbering era. Firemen said neither of the women were fire victims, but that one suffered a heart attack and the second was an invalid.

Electric Power Officials Await Dimout Order

Marion in 21-State Area Designated by CPA; Yule Lights Affected.

Officials of the Marion division of the Ohio Public Service Co. today were awaiting orders from the Civilian Production administration to clamp a dimout on Marion at 8 p. m. Monday. The dimout will cover 21 states, including Ohio.

Harold J. Grigsby, manager of the Marion division and a vice president of the company, said, "We are prepared to obey any government orders which pertain to the community, but so far we have received no directives either from the government or from the company management." He added that instructions might come through Monday.

Yule Lights Affected

The dimout order is expected to check Marion's Christmas lighting in the downtown area. The Chamber of Commerce reported the lights and decorations would go up as scheduled with work starting tomorrow. The lights and decorations should be up by Tuesday or Wednesday, Chamber officials said, but they will not be turned on Thanksgiving night, as originally planned, unless the CPA order is canceled.

Harold Carroll, chairman of the retail board of managers, said he had assured Ohio Public Service Co. officials that the board would abide by any ruling regarding Christmas lighting.

Will Darken Large Area

The coal strike will darken half the country's Christmas trees if it lasts long enough, The Associated Press reported. Power restrictions which go into effect indefinitely Monday forbid extra Yuletide lights inside or out where electricity comes from coal. The ban extends to all outdoors or indoor ornamental lighting and extends to window displayes and gay Christmas lighting by firms and cities.

Theaters must go back to almost dark marquees of the old brownout days, according to The Associated Press. They are allowed 60 watts, the same as that permitted for outdoor entrances.

The CPA order was made as a

Truman Flies Back To Washington To Direct Lewis Fight

By The Associated Press

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 23—President Truman took off today from the Boca Chica airport, eight miles from here, on a flight to Washington, the scene of his administration's struggle to terminate the economy-strangling coal strike.

The presidential plane, commonly referred to as "The Sacred Cow," is due in Washington about 2:30 p. m.

He has been the guest of Rear Admiral C. W. Styer, coordinator of submarine and anti-submarine warfare and the commandant of this submarine base, Capt. Willard Saunders.

The walkout of 400,000 soft coal miners, a dramatic challenge of government authority coming on the heels of a crushing defeat in the congressional elections, found the Chief Executive determinedly silent on his next move.

He was accompanied by his White House staff, including Judge John Caskie Collet, who

SETS DIMOUT; WEIGHS USE OF PIPELINES

Truman Flies to Capital as Government Issues Drastic Orders.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—Amid drastic government moves to ease tightening soft coal shortages, President Truman headed back from Florida today to resume personal command of his "finish fight" with John L. Lewis.

Government officials reported the big and little inch pipelines, wartime conveyors of oil, may be put to work carrying natural gas from Texas to the east for emergency fuel.

A broad dimout was ordered which will halt unnecessary use of electricity—even Christmas tree lighting—in 21 states and the District of Columbia.

Meanwhile attorneys for the justice department and the United Mine Workers marshaled their arguments for the court contempt proceedings Monday which might put Lewis behind bars.

No Compromise Seen

Neither side showed any disposition to compromise.

The government contends Lewis is in contempt of U. S. District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough, who ordered him to call off his contract "termination" which led 400,000 workers to leave the 3,300 government-held mines. Lewis has said nothing since the injunction was issued Monday.

Mr. Truman was due back at the White House in mid-afternoon along with his chief labor adviser, reconversion director John R. Steelman, who flew down for conferences during the President's week-long vacation at Key West.

In the President's absence, government agencies went ahead with plans to soften the impact of the coal stoppage.

Far-Reaching Dimout

The civilian production administration issued effective Monday a dimout order more far-reaching than those of wartime.

Administrator John D. Small said that because of greater industrial consumption now "the situation confronting the American people today is much more serious than that brought about by the coal strike last spring."

Small warned that fuel shortages, restrictions on national economy and the people's comfort are, therefore, "just around the corner."

He added that electric utilities have an average 60-day coal supply, gas utilities "considerably less," and many in both categories already are low on fuel.

The states affected by the dimout order are: Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wisconsin, plus the District of Columbia.

Effective Monday

Effective at 6 p. m. Monday, the order bans use of electricity for lighting store windows or advertising signs and for air conditioning and refrigeration except where essential.

It requires a 25 per cent cut in electricity used for street lighting, buildings except homes, and for running passenger elevators and escalators. All Christmas lighting displays are out.

Small ordered even more drastic restrictions in electric utilities' service when their coal dwindles to a 15-day supply and a third stage of curtailment when coal stocks reach the 10-day stage.

At the same time, CPA ordered utilities furnishing manufactured and mixed gas to curtail deliveries when their stocks fall to a three-week supply. It directed the electric power companies to make the greatest possible use of water power and fuel other than coal and to pool power supplies with other utilities.

Appeals To Governors

Small appealed to state governors and chairmen of state utility commissions for their help in enforcing conservation measures.

The government already had frozen all coal stocks outside the hands of consumers and ordered it held for doling out. The navy also ordered its district commandants to sell any excess coal to essential consumers and to lend out spare power generators.

Officials of interested federal agencies who disclosed the plan to make natural gas carriers of the "big inch" and "little inch" pipelines said it would be no solution to the coal strike but would help alleviate fuel emergencies.

A decision is expected early next week on whether the emergency operation can be started within a reasonable time and whether it is feasible from an engineering standpoint.

Lions, Tigers Ignore Trainer To Engage in Fight to Death

By The Associated Press

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 23—A cage full of roaring, clawing, snarling wild animals—nine lions and two tigers—ignored their veteran trainer and engaged in a free-for-all five minute fight yesterday.

The beasts battled until exhausted and when trainer Dick Clemens, who had only a chair and a stick to defend himself, restored order, two of the lions were dead.

Clemens, soaking wet from what he described as the most terrifying experience in 20 years of training animals, escaped without a scratch.

"I've never seen such a fight in 20 years of animal training," said Clemens, who is about 47. "They were all in it. I was in the middle and I was scared. The young lions (four two-year olds) on one side of me and the old ones and the tigers on the other. Then all hell broke loose.

"But they weren't after me. They were as intent on each other as if they were all after a piece of meat."

Clemens brought in the young lions from the Evansville, Ind. zoo yesterday and they were being "introduced" to five old lions, including the father and mother of the four, and two tigers.

As Clemens prepared to put the animals through their acts in the 30-foot locked steel cage one of the old lions struck at a tiger. The tiger poked back and the fight was on. The young lions, frightened, tried to escape through a chute but they couldn't get out.

"They moved so fast my eye couldn't follow them," Clemens related in explaining how he attempted to halt the battle.

Two of the young lions died, one suffering a broken neck and back, while a second was so badly mauled it was shot.

Five minutes after the fight started Clemens said the tigers were back on their shelves and seven of the lions back on their seats.

All of them, he said, "still are pretty jumpy."

Three Big Floats Arranged For Santa Parade Friday

Three giant floats, in addition to several from 4-H clubs will be included in Marion's Santa Claus parade, to be held next Friday noon in the downtown area, officially opening the Christmas shopping season here, accordingt to an announcement today from the Marion Chamber of Commerce.

The three large floats will include a patriotic float decorated in red white and blue colors, a float carrying Girl Reserves modeling costumes and one carrying Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus. In addition several of the county's 4-H clubs will enter floats in a contest, the Chamber reports. Judges for the 4-H float will be Cutler McGrew, A. L. Bintz and Kenneth Staats. The floats will be judged before the parade.

Other features of the parade will be three high school bands, the Harding school band, the Richwood band and the Caledonia band, and a display of 51 United Nations flags carried by Boy Scouts. A color guard made up of Boy Scouts will lead the section. Eighteen story book characters, dressed in special costume, also will be included.

The parade will move from the Ohio Public Service Co.'s terminal building on West Center street east to Main street, south on Main street to Church street, east on Church street to State street, north street to the court house and north street to he court house and north on Main to the first alley. The parade will move at 12 noon.

William Preston is chairman of the parade committee. Parade marshals will be assigned to assist in forming the parade and keeping it evenly spaced as it moves down the streets.

Plan Offers Ranch-Type House Available On Economy Basis

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood

Low-Cost Ranch-Type House

Considering the design and the modern features of this excellent home, the cost is extremely low. The many points which make this design are the concrete slab foundation, the steel-type roof, the plastic tile exterior which is used for a finish, the economical exterior finish of wall board, the convenient and efficient floor plan of the furnishings shown, and the complete absence of any expense of costly features of trim. All windows and doors are standard and the design is such that the number can be run at the plant and delivered ready to set up.

The center of the house is taken up by a large living room with three high ceiling-windows across the front. The rear wall of the living room has two large picture windows, but these may be omitted if privacy is desired. The size of the living room may be reduced to suit the requirements of the family.

At one end of the living room is the kitchen and dining area and at the other end, two bedrooms and a bathroom. Between the bedrooms and the living room is a hallway with the heating plant, linen closet, and the necessary doors leading to the various rooms.

The outside of the house provides for an attached garage, at a later date, to be accessible to the kitchen and yet away from the front part of the house. This garage can be large enough to accommodate a utility and storage room or a small workshop. The plan may be changed, of course, to meet any desired requirements. For instance, the bedroom may be at the other end of the living room instead of at the front. Accordingly, the house can be made to conform with the requirements of almost any family.

The cost of the house and the convenience essential to modern living.

The individual who may be interested in this particular house should bear in mind the fact that it can be built in stages without doing any particular harm to the structure. For instance, the shell can be built at one time and the inside finishes and roof at another time. The number will not detract one bit more on the job than it would on the finished parts.

The roof may be shingled over and covered with tar paper until the real finish is available. If economy is important, insulating board can be used for the walls instead of wall board. It is of the weatherproofed variety, it can be put on without the necessity of insulating it at once with the real exterior finish. Once the house is framed in and weathertight the interior work can be done at leisure.

Gilding a Picture Frame

Q. Please tell me how to gild picture frames. What materials should I use?

A. You can get "gold" paint at a good 5 & 10 store. The frames should be clean before applying the paint. If you make by touching the application of gilt, but just that is a job for an expert. The dealer at the art store may be able to give you the name of a professional who can do the work.

This type of construction can be carried on [illegible] because it is largely inside work. Living quarters are provided at lower rental rates under the phase of the Veterans Emergency Housing program because less material and time are required.

Everything's Normal: The Sea Serpent's Back

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 — The world is returning to normalcy is a report from Italy that a 100-foot rose-colored sea serpent has been sighted in Lake Como.

If we can just get the five-cent glass of beer back we will be ready to plunge again into the happy daze where our only worries were who to swallow, what to wear, how to get Joe Louis, who runs Bobby Riggs, whether Ingrid Bergman is a natural or a night club.

Hal Boyle

Even that last item is perhaps the most serious in history to be decided. A "rose-colored" should hesitate to suspect he is seeing through an upturned bottle. Nor does it prove that the Italian fishermen who claim the monster bowled over their boat were necessarily fugitives from Alcoholics Anonymous.

There is a possibility that this new behemoth is merely the Loch Ness monster wintering in Italy to escape the rigors of the Scottish climate. He is a very rare fresh water sea sergent, too.

The Loch Ness sea sergent, first seen in 1933, made his last public appearance in 1943. He hid out during the war after a group of pubroom admirals proposed that the British navy capture him and train him to hunt down German submarines.

Must Be Newcomer

Considering this draft-dodging record, therefore, it must be assumed that the Lake Como giant is a newcomer, for the "Sweetheart of Loch Ness" was a shy sea serpent who never raised his tail in anger. Certainly the big sissy wouldn't charge full tilt into several boats full of brawny fisher-folk.

Many cynics believe the "Great Sea Sergent" is as mythical as ogres, rocs, unicorns, the flying Dutchman, the phoenix, or the well-known bald-headed man with dandruff.

The scientists aren't so cocksure. Some say there still may exist in the ocean's watery wastes a few of the great prehistoric reptiles, or, more plausibly, a scarce modern kind of gigantic sea snake still unclassified.

Can't Deny Existence

"Remote though it may be in the background," cautions the conservative Encyclopaedia Britannica, "it is still unwise to deny the existence of the sea-serpent."

Which may be some consolation to Lake Como's intrepid fishermen—if they can read English as well as they can see sea serpents.

Nobody ever threw a halter around one of these reluctant water dragons, but since the 16th century some 200 cases of their appearance have been reported, some obviously hoaxes, some obviously instances where they were confused with whales, giant squids or schools of porpoises. But others still are studied by serious scientists.

Where have they been seen? Within the last hundred and fifty years reports of sea serpents have come from Indo-China, Loch Ness, the Gulf of California, Gloucester, New Zealand, the Isle of Skye, Brazil, the west coast of Africa, Vancouver, and the Thames estuary.

Varied Crew Saw Them

Who saw them? Or thought they did? Experienced mariners, screwballs, businessmen, doctors, clergymen and so distinguished a sailor as Commander H. L. Pearson, skipper of Queen Victoria's yacht, who reported in 1877 to the British admiralty he had sighted a 150-foot unknown sea monster off north Sicily.

So don't just sit there in your chair and say "there ain't no such animal." All the people who say they saw one weren't nibbling on high-voltage soda pop.

The Lake Como serpent—if any—differs from other members of the breed—if any—by having great horns and huge scales.

If this isn't just the biggest fish story ever to come out of the Mediterranean area, the new monster can expect an offer from Billy Rose guaranteening him 13 weeks in Rockefeller Center at his own figure.

Of course, he can't draw crowds forever by just being a sea serpent. Not in New York. He will probably have to learn to ice skate.

(Monday: How to tell a sea serpent, and what to do next).

POLICE HUNT GUNMEN

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Nov. 23—Two gunmen who took between $2,000 and $2,500 from the safe of a wholesale cigar store here yesterday were sought by police today. They escaped in the automobile of the store manager, Tom Rausch.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Baby Disease

Of all the strange and mysterious disorders which may afflict the human body none is more peculiar than one known as Hirschsprung's disease.

This disorder seems particularly to affect boy babies, occurring in male children ten times more frequently than in female. Its outstanding feature is a tremendous over-development of the large intestine. It would appear that the condition is present at birth. As a result of the enlargement of the bowel, constipation begins to cause trouble within the first few weeks of life and gradually becomes more severe and more constant.

The exact cause of the disorder is not known. It is thought that possibly it may be due to a contraction of the muscles of the bowel which do not relax as they should. Hence the movement of the bowel called peristalsis gradually causes the bowel to stretch and get longer.

The most prominent symptom, as I have mentioned above, is constipation, which sometimes actually is present at birth. It often is so severe that the bowels may move only once a week. However, within a few days diarrhea develops and the bowel is emptied. Then the constipation again develops. These children do not grow normally. Their weight is below average and they have a pale complexion. Loss of appetite, offensive odor of the breath and vomiting are other common symptoms. There may be attacks of pain in the abdomen, but these usually are not severe. The abdomen is swollen or distended. Of course, an X-ray of the bowel will definitely reveal the enlargement.

In the milder cases, according to Dr. Wilfrid Sheldon of England, medical treatment with neostigmine has been found helpful. It is given three times a day and the dose gradually increased under the directions of the physician. While this treatment overcomes the constipation it will not reduce the swelling of the abdomen. Surgical treatment has also been tried and may be beneficial in some cases. Dr. Sheldon points out that spinal anesthesia, which means the injection of a local anesthetic into the spinal canal, is also a good form of treatment. In some cases this treatment gives permanent results.

Mass Sedition Case Dismissed by Judge

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—Chief Justice Bolitha J. Laws in federal district court yesterday dismissed the four-year-old mass sedition case.

In granting defense motions to dismiss the indictments and prevent a retrial of the conspiracy case against 25 defendants, Laws said:

"Under the circumstances, to permit another trial, which conceivably would last more than a year, with new prosecutors and newly-appointed counsel for defendants, with the eventual outcome in serious doubt * * * would be a travesty on justice."

The government has the right to appeal laws' decisions.

The 26 defendants were placed on trial April 19, 1944, charged with conspiracy to interefere with the draft and to undermine the morale of the armed forces.

After a trial lasting eight months, with the government's evidence not yet completed, the presiding judge, Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher, died and a mistrial was declared.

1946 Santa Claus Gets His Orders for Season

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 23—The 1946 Santa Claus received his orders. He must:

Pass a Wasserman test, a skin test and a chest X-ray; wear white gloves at all times and avoid the temptation to use them to "wipe his nose;" keep his beard dry and free of tobacco stains and head lice; keep his face, hands and clothing clean; meet the same standards demanded of a food handler.

Santa Claus last year had the option of submitting to the physical examination. It's obligatory this time. In fact, said health officer Charles V. Craster, there will be daily checks by city health department inspectors.

What's more, Santa Claus can't kiss the children, either.

YOUTHS SENTENCED

By The Associated Press

HAMILTON, O., Nov. 23—Herbert Goodwin, 16, of Hamilton and Charles Davenport, 16, of Greenville, Ky., today were under sentence to serve undeterminate terms in the state reformatory at Mansfield for robbery and assault with intent to kill Edward Burkhart, 52-year-old farmer, last month. Sentence was imposed yesterday by Juvenile Judge Oscar Leiser. Sheriff Charles Walke said the youths admitted the charges.

SAYS RUSS WAGING NERVE WAR ON U. S.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—Louis F. Budenz, former Communist leader, told a congressional committee yesterday the Soviet government "is engaged in a war of nerves against the United States" that "could go to military conflict."

Budenz testified in a hearing by the house committee on un-American activities that the purpose of the campaign is to "undermine" the United States government.

"The Soviet government is engaged in a war of nerves against the United States on the Hitlerite pattern with, of course, its own variations," he said. "This war of nerves will go to the point of military conflict. That could go to military conflict."

A native of Indianapolis, the 55-year-old Budenz now is an assistant professor of economics at Fordham university. He recently held a similar post at Notre Dame.

Before returning to Catholicism, he was president of Freedom of the Press, Inc., which published the Daily Worker, Communist newspaper. He was editor of the midwest Daily Record, Chicago, and of the Daily Worker, and a member of the Communist party national committee.

Budenz was the only witness called yesterday. The committee had postponed, probably until next year, questioning of Gerhard Eisler, named by Budenz as one of the top leaders of the Communist party in the United States.

GETS REPUBLICAN POST

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 23—Arthur A. Hoopingarner, publisher of the Dover Daily Reporter, was appointed director of public relations at the Republican party's state headquarters yesterday by state chairman Fred H. Johnson. Hoopingarner was public relations director of the G.O.P. state campaign committee.

HAPPENED BEFORE—WILL IT HAPPEN AGAIN? The precedent upon which the government is basing its legal action against John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers head, was set some 52 years ago when, in 1894, President Cleveland called out troops to break the Pullman strike and secured a labor injunction. When Eugene V. Debs was sent to jail, the matter was fought to the supreme court, which upheld the injunction as valid. In center is John L. Lewis as he appeared in 1919 when a coal strike threat caused the government to give him 72 hours in which to settle. This he did, under protest, in 24 hours. At right is Lewis as he appeared after the miners had walked out after their "no contract-no work" ultimatum and the government had announced a fight to the finish.

2 Small Michigan Girls Disappointed in Marion

Two little sisters from Walled Lake, Mich., visiting relatives here last weekend had a bitter experience, their parents, former Marionites, wrote The Star from the Michigan town recently.

It may result in their taking a dim view of Marion — perhaps even the whole state of Ohio, their parents fear.

It seems the little girls, the smaller of whom is three, had gone out gathering hickory nuts all day Saturday and had amassed a 12-pound bag of them. They put them in a parked car near their hosts' house last Saturday night.

When they went to get them the next day—no nuts. They had been stolen.

So "Nuts to Marion," the little girls are inclined to say, although they used to love it here

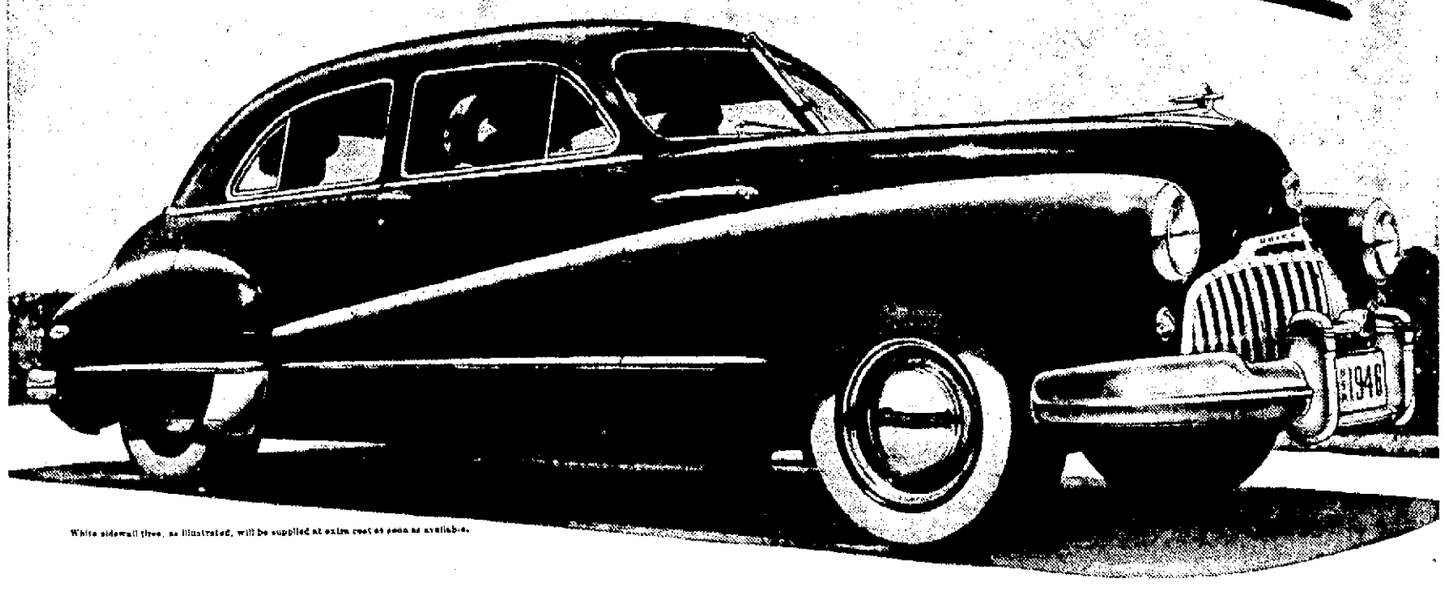
Look ahead to Something Great



White sidewall tires, as illustrated, will be supplied at extra cost as soon as available.

Put to you straight, the story's this:

No car made today is coming to you fast as its makers would like.

It stands to reason that the car most wanted is not going to be the easiest to get.

But that car will have what you're aiming for.

Style that's no mere one-year wonder — but smart and clean and right in a way that lasts.

Power — plenty of it — a big bonnetful of Fireball straight-eight power, smooth as cream pouring from a pitcher.

Size and roadability and easy-handling — this car will be a travel-wise honey that hugs the road as though it loved it!

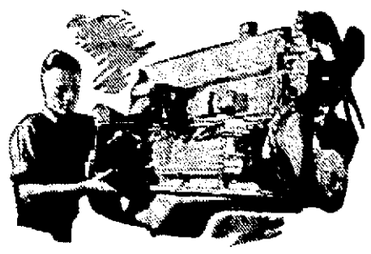
There will be smoothness and steadiness you haven't known before — and putting it all together for you a hard-driving production outfit that's staging a notably successful battle against shortages and slowdowns.

If it takes longer to get a Buick than anyone thought a few months back, it has also proved itself as a whale of a lot more automobile than folks expected!

So skip today — give a thought to tomorrow—and plan ahead for something good.

Get your money down on a Buick, available for future delivery — with or without a car to trade.

Tune in HENRY J. TAYLOR on the air twice weekly



FIREBALL AT ITS FINEST. In a fistful of vital dimensions, this big Fireball straight-eight is made to closer tolerances than an aircraft engine. And Accurite cylinder boring gives a piston-fit from the beginning that never has been equaled before.

What Other Car Has So Much That Clicks For Forty-Six!

SMARTNESS — that sets the style pattern with car-length Airfoil fenders and bolt-on rear wheel shields.
POWER — from a Buick Fireball valve-in-head straight-eight engine.
OIL SAVINGS — from non-scuffing Accurite cylinder bores.

MISSION AT ST. MARY ENDS FIRST HALF

Services To Be Held Tonight and Sunday.

A sermon followed by benediction tonight and services Sunday at 3:30 p. m. will mark the closing of the first half of the mission being conducted at St. Mary Catholic church by Rev. Roland Maher, C. P., of Detroit and Rev. Walter Kaelin, C. P. of Chicago, mission priests. The services Sunday afternoon will bring to a solemn closing the week's mission attended by women of the parish and there will be the renewal of baptismal vows and the receiving of the papal blessing. The solemn closing of the mission conducted during the day for the children of the parochial school was held yesterday with Rev. Maher giving the sermon. A mission for the men of the parish will open Sunday night.

Taking for his theme the text, "Greater love than this no man hath, than he lay down his life for his friends," Rev. Kaelin spoke on the Crucifixion of Christ at last night's service. The most eloquent speech of love is sacrifice, Rev. Kaelin said, and by action, he continued, our Lord tells us of His love for His Heavenly Father and His infinite love for us. His greatest action was His death on the Cross.

Asking his audience to go in spirit to Calvary, Rev. Kaelin pictured the mental and physical suffering and death of Christ on the Cross. "We are the ones who should undergo the passion, but Jesus wanted to do it for us. You who sin, crucfiy again the Son of God and make of Him a mockery," he said.

Indian Works by Lamplight

By The Associated Press

CORNING, N. Y.—Glass Chimneys for kerosene lamps, regarded by many almost as antiques, are in greater demand today than ever before, according to production schedules of the Corning Glass Works.

Lamp chimneys are one of 37,000 glass articles manufactured by the industry, but the demand is so great that the company's entire plant at Charleroi, Pa., formerly the Macbeth-Evans Co., is now operating on a 24-hour day, 7-day week basis in order to keep abreast of orders.

Corning expects to turn out 14,000,000 lamp chimneys by machine by the end of this year.

U. S., BRITAIN CALLED SPEECH SABOTEURS

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Nov. 23—Izvestia's New York correspondent charged today that United States and British delegates to the United Nations general assembly had sought through statements to the press to weaken the effect of speeches of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and his deputy Andrei Vishinsky.

"Seeing that the initiative in raising the most important issues belongs to the Soviet delegates," he reported in a dispatch boldly played in the Russian government newspaper, "representatives of the U. S. A. and Britain have more than once resorted to backalley tactics.

"After speeches of the Soviet delegates, they have hurried into the corridors of the assembly to make their own statements to press representatives, * * * statements having the purpose of weakening the impression evoked by the speech of Molotov or Vishinsky. This already has become traditional tactics with the British and American delegations, but it must be admitted these tactics are producing no effect."

The correspondent, whose article was headed "In the Vanguard of the Struggle for Peace," said he had observed that proposals of the Soviet delegation "stand in the very center" of public attention and that "even the American press is emphasizing that the initiative of raising questions belongs to the Soviet delegation."

Dairy Program Starts Dec. 9

Two Specialists Here To Discuss Artificial Breeding of Cattle.

Two of the state's leading specialists on artificial breeding of dairy cattle spoke at a Marion county agricultural council meeting in the Y. M. C. A. last night, paving the way for opening of an artificial breeding program in Marion county Dec. 9.

They were Raymond Starbuck, dairy specialist of Ohio State university, and Max Drake of Tiffin, manager of the Northern Ohio Breeders association.

Following the meeting Arthur H. Smith, Marion county agricultural agent, announced plans of the Marion Dairy Service Cooperative to open an artificial insemination program here Dec. 9. Dr. Walter D. McClaskey of near Owens station will be county inseminator, and dairymen interested in the program may file applications for membership either with Dr. McClaskey or with Mr. Smith.

At last night's meeting the two dairy specialists explained to farmers and farm leaders of the county the procedure followed in artificial breeding. Mr. Starbuck told the group one of the principal advantages of artificial insemination was the use of good tested bulls to breed a larger number of cows. Through the program, even scrub cows may be serviced with the best bulls, he explained. Artificial breeding is about as effective as natural breeding, he pointed out, with only one service needed in approximately 60 per cent of cows bred. Farmers are more aware of their breeding problems under the artificial program, he stated, because accurate records are kept for individual cows.

Mr. Drake told the group of the work being done by the Northern Ohio Breeders association with its bull farm near Tiffin. This year the association's bulls will service between 32,000 and 33,000 cows in 29 counties in the state, he said. All counties adjoining Marion now receive service from the association. Colored slides of some of the bulls at the farm were shown by Mr. Drake and a film on artificial breeding was shown by Mr. Starbuck.

Next meeting of the agricultural council will be held Dec. 20, when Virgil Wertz, rural economics specialist of Ohio State university, will be speaker.

Suggestions for the care of water pipes during cold weather.

Before Cold Weather Sets In— DO THIS . . .

Wrap exposed water pipes with old newspapers, rags or burlap. Your water meter, if located in the basement, should also be wrapped with old newspapers, rags, or burlap. If meter is located in vault outside your house, it is already protected.

DO THIS . . .

Make your basement snug. Repair broken window panes. Stuff cracks in walls, around windows and doors which admit cold air. This precaution will save fuel, too.

● Turn off and drain outside fixtures.

During Bitterly Cold Weather— DO THIS . . .

Open one faucet located highest in your house and let a small trickle of water run all night. One quart a minute is enough.

These simple precautions now will save future inconvenience and possible costly repairs, resulting from frozen water pipes.

Neither Legalities nor Bayonets

THE prevailing opinion that John L. Lewis has grown too big for his pants and needs to be whittled down is an emotional judgment that has nothing to do at this juncture with the problems of how to get coal mined. What may happen to the United Mine Workers boss is a legal technicality. What may happen to the United States if a coal strike drags on into the winter is a national tragedy.

The statement Mr. Lewis once made that coal can't be mined with soldiers' bayonets now can be amended; coal isn't mined with legalities either. The fact is that coal production already had dwindled as miners, obeying the unwritten law of their union, stayed away from the pits. The damage was done before the deadline for doing it was reached.

Miners have rejected the appeal of their government to remain at work, just as railroadmen did earlier this year. Like the railroadmen who obeyed only their own union officials, the miners have signified plainly they do not recognize either the pleadings or the direct orders of public authority.

Unions of public employes have shown the same attitude on numerous occasions. It is not only this or that union executive who has outgrown his clothing of citizenship, but organizations of men and women in the United States who now put their grievances ahead of the public welfare. One such organization shut off a large part of the power supply of Pittsburgh last summer. Appeals by municipal authority were futile. Even government seizure, once a last resort to be tried only when everything else had failed, has come to mean little or nothing. The government is in possession of the mining industry, but has no more power to keep it operating than the operators themselves would have.

There are no legalities to help such a situation. There is nothing that can help it, except a change of heart and mind on the part of thousands of citizens who have discovered power but have not yet discovered the secret of restraint that preserves power by using it in behalf of the people.

Overseas Troops

THE Soviet Union wants an up-to-date inventory of Allied occupation forces. It seems likely the United States will agree to this proposition.

Whatever the official decision may be, Russians will be well advised to take into consideration a condition of American public opinion on the general subject of overseas occupation forces.

This condition of opinion may have more bearing on international sparring in the long run than anything done officially, especially anything done in the course of maneuvering for international advantage in the United Nations. Cooperative security within the United Nations continues to be a hope that recedes with each new demonstration of the absence of good will. But American public opinion is something being created by daily experience in the postwar world.

These elements of opinion now are established:

That it is more practical to keep large numbers of men overseas now than to withdraw them in haste.

That millions of foreigners who look to the United States for international leadership would be betrayed by any precipitate action tending to leave them exposed to Russia the only nation with a policy of expansion.

That the United States is not called upon to apologize in any degree or on any score for taking literally its obligations as the strongest military power in the world.

That the American people should put their own national integrity ahead of the opinion of any government, even if it means pursuing an unpopular policy, because they will be judged by history, not by politicians.

If the Soviet Union feels there are too many United States troops in Europe and the Far East, that may be an excellent reason for sending more.

A Place for Tom Jenkins

REPRESENTATIVE THOMAS A. JENKINS of Ironton has represented Ohio's 10th district in every Congress since 1925. He is one of the Republican party's deans in the House of Representatives.

He has served intelligently and faithfully in many capacities and has been a valuable member of the ways and means committee for many years.

During the 79th congress he performed outstanding extra service to the party as chairman of its congressional food study committee, which made many important findings and recommendations.

No member of the Republican majority in the new house of representatives has a stronger claim to party recognition than Representative Jenkins. He would be a credit to the Republican majority as its leader. It is such experience as his that impels consideration when the chips are down in selection of a man for this highly important assignment.

G.O.P. Plans for Savings

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Ability To Cut Expenses May Be Overestimated.

IN the previous column, it was pointed out that next year's Federal budget cannot be based on the assumption that revenues will be as great as they were this year. But Republican leaders, apparently assuming that the same income is possible, are rushing ahead with improvised promises of economies and tax cuts. It will be well to examine these anticipated economies with care.

Last January, the President's budget hinted that a normal peacetime budget for the year after present emergencies would be around $25,000,000,000. He did not specify, but probably had in mind a rough guess similar to the following: Military forces, $6-8 billion; debt service, $5 billion, veterans, $3.5 billion, general administration, $4 billion, social security, farm price support, public works, international finance and other categories, $4.5 to $6.5 billion.

Situation Changes

But circumstances since January have pushed some of these rather modest figures into the background. Most Republicans seem to be content with cuts which would leave the budget as high as or well beyond $30,000,000,000. And even the cuts they specify seem speculative.

The most popular of Republican suggestions is to cut the number of federal employees by a million. This observer believes that Democrats have been pulling Republican legs on this item, perhaps to prepare the way for an outcry later on that the Republicans have crippled national services. Certainly, the scare that has gone through the government has already paralyzed many useful employees.

The proof that the figure of a million was pulled out of a hat—and probably a Democratic hat—is provided by Mr. Taber, prospective chairman of appropriations. He was asked by a reporter how government employment could be reduced to 500,000 in light of the number of essential postoffice employees. Mr. Taber said that 200,000 were employed in the postal service. A postoffice department official subsequently stated that the number of postoffice employees is 492,364.

Loose Figuring

Somebody is doing some very loose figuring. And, what is worse, some loose talking.

The estimate of an official in Washington was that if we should drop all Federal employees except Army, Navy, Postoffice, Social Security and Treasury, we would have less than $2,000,000,000. Truman budget estimates of August indicate a charge of $1,683,000,000 for civil service and agency salaries. Mr. Taber figures, however, that $3,000,000,000 can be saved by firing Federal employees.

Everybody believes that we should cut federal employment to the bone. There are and have been vast hordes of bureaucrats eating out our substances and they should be dropped. But they don't eat as much as Republican leaders think they do. It is doubtful if, after a year, a saving of $750,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 can be made by cutting federal employment.

In a subsequent column, a number of other economy claims will be considered.

A Household Hint For Henpecked Hubby

Scientific research at Michigan State College reveals dishes are more sanitary when undried.

This substantiation of their oft-espoused theory comes, strangely enough, as a distinct surprise to many husbands.

Some hadn't been as pleasantly astonished since reading that whisky really does quiet the nerves.

Drying dishes, it seems, serves not to disturb but to distribute the germs, a condition unappealing in a nation whose current theme song is "To Each His Own."

Incidentally, there's no way of estimating the time which has been wasted in the past hundred years by men washing dishes and by women trying to get them to do it.

Who knows but that, in the millions of man-hours thus squandered, civilization might have developed an even deadlier atom-bomb?

Daily Bible Thought

Ill gotten gains are like weights to a drowning man. If your little was gained through serving some need of humanity, your conscience will not trouble you: "Better is little with the fear of the Lord than great treasure and trouble therewith."—Prov. 15:16.

The Eisenhower Candidacy

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower's decision to appear before the CIO convention in Atlantic City and, still more important, his choice of a topic more fundamental than the national defense, are bound to cause renewed speculation on his potentialities as a presidential candidate. The situation can be summarized very simply. As matters stand, the man who led the Allied armies to victory in Europe will find it almost impossible to avoid becoming a candidate, whether he wants to or not.

As others have pointed out, the talk of General Eisenhower's early resignation, or appointment to the embassy in London, is mere empty gossip. But General Eisenhower has done his stint, and it is not gossip to say that he does not mean to serve out his four-year term as chief of staff.

On the contrary, there is every indication that General Eisenhower means to retire as soon as he feels his real job is completed—probably not very long after he has seen the defense appropriations and some form of defense unification measure through this session of congress. It is already widely known that he will be succeeded by the greatest of his subordinates, General Omar Bradley. And although Eisenhower will retire from the service, and allow himself the luxury of leisure after gruelling work, he will not wholly retire from public life. If his friends do not mistead his mind, his storied experience has given him a good many things he wishes to say when he enjoys the freedom of a private citizen. He will say these things and one does not have to be very bright to realize that he will not lack for an audience.

Plenty of Followers

General Eisenhower can hardly help it if, in this situation, he will be nothing less than a lightning rod, attracting to himself the hopes of large numbers of men in both parties who are dissatisfied with other candidates. He deserves a relief from his pressing duties, if any man does. If he has views to express, surely no man has a better right to self-expression than he. Yet in such circumstances the movement to draft him will equally surely emerge from the political underground, where it is already pretty strong today, and become a major political phenomenon.

The curious aspect of the situation is that the Republicans and Democrats will each have their own "Draft Eisenhower" crusades. As yet, the general has no political affiliation of any kind. Already there are plenty of Republican businessmen and some politicians who consider that Eisenhower offers their ideal escape from the slightly inhuman competence of Governor Thomas E. Dewey and the unrelenting conservatism of Senator Robert A. Taft. Among the Democrats, there is little visible enthusiasm to go down with the sinking ship of President Truman, and Eisenhower looks like a winner. If he continues to keep mum about which party he prefers, it is entirely possible that we shall see a repetition of the rather comic situation of 1920. In that year, Herbert Hoover was the unknown to be drafted. Hoover actually received the votes of a number of delegates to the Democratic convention while none other than Senator Taft, then a young graduate of his relief staff, sought to round up Republican support for him.

Summing It Up

A political manager who was choosing his party for Eisenhower might balance the advantages as follows. If nominated on the Republican ticket, he would be as certain of election as a man can be. Indeed, one of the leading Democrats in Washington has remarked that "if the Republicans pick Ike, the only thing we Democrats would do would be to make it unanimous." As a Republican, however, Eisenhower would be far from certain of securing the nomination. Confidence is too high and competition is too hot among the professionals.

As a Democrat, Eisenhower's situation would be exactly reversed. Nomination would carry with it no guarantee of election. The Wallace wing of the party would have to overcome the powerful Republican trend. He would be the most likely winner, but it would not be a dead certainty. On the other hand, a move to draft him could far more easily sweep the Democratic convention than the Republican.

The renomination of President Truman is by no means the absolutely inevitable event that many have asserted. The power of a president to renominate himself depends on his control of the party organization. The illness and retirement of Postmaster General Robert Hannegan will leave this control weakened. The professionals are looking for a substitute. The events of the next eighteen months are not likely to revive support for the President. And Eisenhower would be a candidate who looked like a winner—which is every politician's first consideration.

It is hard on him that he should find himself thus leaping from the frying pan of war leadership, only to fall into the fire of domestic politics. Yet he can hardly avoid it, even although in the end he manages to dodge it, for he wish to lead a new and even greater responsibility on his shoulders. And at least he should take it as a solid tribute, that he is the one man in the country as to whose high qualifications for the biggest job in the world men of all parties are almost unanimous.

CAR SICK

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Nov. 23, 1936.

Orris P. Van Sweringen, Cleveland financier, died aboard a train enroute from his home in Cleveland to New York City. He was 57.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beck of Girard avenue entertained members of the Y. M. B. club and their husbands at a potluck dinner honoring Mrs. Clara Morrison and her sister, Mrs. Bertha Irion, who were leaving for California to spend the winter.

Clarence Hart of South Prospect street received an invitation to display his collection of more than 900 pencils in the Central Ohio Hobby show at Columbus the following February.

A Thanksgiving dinner for a family of five was estimated to cost the head of the household six dollars, according to prices listed in local stores. The royal bird was expected to sell for 30 cents a pound sans life and feathers and around 28 cents on foot.

In what city officials described as a move to modernize an existing ordinance regulating fortune telling and other modern "ologies" of that business, city council adopted an ordinance setting up new regulations for those seeking to practice astrology, fortune telling, clairvoyance, palmistry, phrenology and soothsaying. Under the new ordinance the city could demand as much as $10 a day from such persons pursuing their business in the city limits, but the assessment, the officials explained, was intended for persons regarded as undesirable practitioners.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, Nov. 23, 1926.

City Solicitor Grant E. Mouser, Jr., in a talk to city council, sounded a warning that utmost care would have to be taken to keep down the municipal debt in order that the city's credit might not be impaired.

Frank Asbun, 40, farmer, whose home was near Worthington, was killed 10 miles north of Columbus when his automobile was hit by a C., D. & M. car. Charles W. Paddock, world-famous sprinter who was on his way from Columbus to Marion to lecture, was a passenger in the traction car.

Gasoline prices dropped one cent in Marion, placing the new price at 21 cents.

Charles W. "Tubby" Kramer, center of the Harding High school football team, was elected captain for the next year.

Twenty-five members of the Columbus Altrusa club were guests of the Marion Altrusa club at a dinner in the ballroom of Hotel Harding. The principal address on the dinner program was given by City School superintendent Jesse H. Mason.

Inspection Unlikely To Work

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IF ANYTHING useful is to come of the talk about armaments—be it the size of the Red Army and of the British and American forces at home and abroad, our strategic bases, the atomic bomb—we shall have, I believe to recognize two propositions which all governments regard as self-evident and no government will discuss publicly.

The first is that two governments, however closely allied, will not voluntarily tell each other all their military secrets. The second is that all governments, however friendly, are continually at work cracking each other's secrets.

As long as these two propositions are not admitted, a public debate on disarmament can never be sincere. Moreover, public proposals to disarm or to regulate armaments will be maneuvers for national advantage in the balance of power.

I hasten to say that my purpose in making these statements is not to promote cynicism but on the contrary to find a firm basis of truth on which practical progress might be made in the world as it is today. But first the statements themselves must be substantiated.

The first proposition is that two governments, however closely allied, will not voluntarily tell each other all their military secrets. No two governments in all history were ever more closely allied than the British and American during this war. They pooled almost all their military secrets. But not all. The United States, for example, withheld some of the secrets of her own secret agents in various parts of the world.

Not Even in War

It goes without saying that even in the crisis of the war there was no such thing as full disclosure of military plans, intelligence, or weapons by the Soviet Union and the British-American staffs.

Now that the common danger is over, and rivalry is so intense, we cannot count on greater frankness. We must expect less frankness.

The second proposition is that all governments, knowing that all other governments withhold secrets, are continually at work cracking these secrets. How far they succeed is, of course, itself a top secret, and I am not meaning to give the impression that I know any of these top secrets. But two concrete examples can be cited to prove the point which matters, namely that governments know more about each other's military affairs than the ordinary citizen would suppose if he just listened to the public speeches.

Not long ago Mr. Churchill made a statement about the size of the Red Army in eastern Europe, and this drew from Stalin a statement saying that there were 60 divisions. The figures he published may have been news to the general public; they were known with negligible differences to those whose business it was to know them.

Another example. M. Molotov is prodding the British to say publicly how many troops they have stationed in friendly countries. He means particularly the Middle East. But M. Molotov knows how many troops the British have. We know. The native governments in the Middle East know. What, then, is the dark secret that M. Molotov is trying to extract from Sir Alexander Cadogan? It is that the British are stronger in certain places than the excitable elements of the native population have been told, and weaker in others than the maintenance of order might require. What M. Molotov is seeking is not information affecting the security of the Soviet Union or of the world but the publication of information which could embarrass the British in the unsettle Middle East.

If we re-examine the problem of armaments in the light of these two propositions, we may be able to draw some useful practical conclusions.

Inspection Little Good

One is that not much is to be gained by basing an international armaments policy on "inspection." No government will agree to complete inspection of its military secrets, and incomplete inspection will disclose only the information that does not really matter. Short of inspectors who sit in the inner councils of the highest military authorities in all countries, the critical military information cannot be inspected.

The basic conclusion of the Acheson - Lilienthal committee, and the major premise of their proposals, was that military secrets cannot be "inspected" from the outside.

An international agreement to permit inspection of all military affairs is an absolute impossibility. The inspectors would have to have free access to the deliberations of the Politburo, of our joint chiefs of staff, and the key to all the codes and the combinations of all the safes.

Since every government knows that total inspection is impossible, no government will rely upon the reports of the inspectors that the diplomats might agree to appoint. The stakes are the life and death of nations, and no government will trust to inspectors to tell it whether it is in danger of attack. Inspection, however impressive, will inevitably be supplemented by secret intelligence. The Russians would certainly be sure secretly to inspect for themselves the inspectors and what the inspectors reported and did not report. We would be more naive than we are if we didn't do this too.

Therefore, in discussing armaments with the Russians we ought to talk privately, and only at the highest level, and only when we are in sight of a general political settlement in Europe, the Middle East and the Far East. Until then no one is going to disarm.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Case of the Crocked Broadway Theatergoer

Judge—What is the charge against this man?

Prosecutor—He was found very drunk on Broadway and was belligerent and boisterous.

Judge (to prisoner)—You don't look the type. Were you under the influence of liquor?

Prisoner—Was I? Oh, boy!

Judge—How many drinks did you have?

Prisoner—I didn't have any.

Judge—Don't be insolent. A man can't get crocked without drinking, can he?

Prisoner—Yerroner, it's easy.

Judge—How many saloons did you visit?

Prisoner—I didn't visit any saloons.

Judge—Enough of this nonsense!

Prisoner—Let me explain. My friend is a little vague and I've still got a terrific hangover, but it all began like this. I was walking down Broadway and I turned into 44th street. Then I went into a place called the Broadhurst.

Judge—That's a theater. You can't get overcome by liquor in a theater.

Prisoner—That's what you think! I remember going into the place and I found myself under the influence almost at once. It was something called a "pink lady"—one of those gin drinks. Boy, what a place! Everybody all stewed up. The bottles lit up, bubbles sparkled in the air, a librarian sang—it was wonderful! But I can't stand much and I went under early.

Judge—Where did you go next?

Prisoner—I remember going back to Broadway and turning next into 45th. It was a place called the Booth.

Judge—Hadn't you had plenty?

Prisoner—Yes, but a fellow had given me two tickets to "Playboy of the Western World." He said it wouldn't hurt me. The drinks came free there, too. Mostly Irish whisky. And with no chaser!

Judge—I've been to the Booth. I never saw any drinking there.

Prisoner—You couldn't have been there this season!

Judge—Go on!

Prisoner—Well, I remember waking up two days late with an awful head. I resolved to stay on the wagon.

Judge—Why didn't you?

Prisoner—A press agent told me I needed a bracer. He said he knew a good spot and he took me over to 45th Street, a place called the Mart Beck. We ran into a fellow named O'Neil there and I was boiled again in no time.

Judge—Have you no will power?

Prisoner—Yes, but by seats were too far from it to depend on it. I couldn't help getting a snootful.

Judge—Why didn't you leave after a couple of hours.

Prisoner—I did. But I went back.

Judge—Why?

Prisoner—There was an evening performance.

* * *

Judge—Why don't you get yourself in hand? Can't you give up the theater?

Prisoner—I'm afraid it's got me. I'd have to taper off slowly.

Judge—You're really in bad shape. I think I'll sentence you to ten nights at 'Harvey.' The drinking is mostly offstage there.

Prisoner (happily)—Goody, goody! May I take the rabbit?

Judge—What rabbit?

Prisoner—The one sitting beside you.

Judge—That does it!

The proposed new Madison Square Garden will cover two blocks in Columbus Circle, making it possible to hold a half-dozen fairs, shows, fights, hockey games, &c., at one time. We propose the razing of the present statue of Columbus there and the substitution of a superdooper one to be known as "Kid" Columbus or "K. O. Chris."

* * *

We are at work on a design. We want the face of Columbus to suggest a composite likeness of P. T. Barnum, Flo Ziegfeld, Ned Irish, Tex Rickard, Col. Kilpatrick, Sonja Henie and the discoverer of America. In one hand we would have the statue hold an electric sign, "Have Your Tickets Ready," and in the other a complete program in neons.

Diary of a Tomcat

By TRUMAN TWILL

HEREWITH a few passages from the diary of T. Manville Twill the tomcat. These are the first passages ever to be published from this document, discovered in a sugar bowl that hasn't been in use since the beginning of World War II. Written in a fair hand on a good grade of bond paper, the diary is a frank confession of what goes on in a tomcat's mind. The customary payments made to tomcats who reveal their secrets to the press will be turned over to a home for deserted kittens.

Dear Diary: Just another night. Home at dawn more dead than alive and had to wait on the porch for the sleepyheads to get up. They won't give me a key because I might lose it, but the real reason is that they are afraid I might go into the house alone with that precious pup.

This time I am making no mistakes. The pup is going to know her place if it takes every ounce of strength I have. They know damned well I am psychopathic where she is concerned and they aren't helping matters any by always taking her side because she is smaller. She's a dog, and I hate dogs, all sizes. It is an open and shut case of dog eat cat or viceversa, and I do not intend to be eaten.

Confidentially, I do not intend to do any eating either, but that is not the impression I must give. I must hold that animal at bay's length, which suits me fine but she does not get the idea. She wants to be friendly and keeps slipping up behind me to nuzzle me in the most unexpected places, which isn't so bad now but might lead to bloodshed in another six months. You never can tell what ideas may come into a dog's head.

Therefore, I shall continue to sink a claw up to the hilt in her south end whenever I see it going north, or the other way around, and when no one is watching I shall land on her from the back of a chair. This will put her on her mettle and equip her to face the facts of life. If she thinks I am a bad-tempered tomcat, wait until she runs into a mother cat with kittens. The war between dogs and cats never stops. No cat can afford to let it wither on the vine, because if we ever let the dogs take us into camp we would be outweighed and outnumbered.

Some people do not understand this. The people I live with do not understand it. They are naive. Wars strike them as silly because they think everything could be settled by good will, the dopes. It never occurs to them that cats have claws and teeth, which they either must use or no one would be afraid of us. The dogs would push us around and the kids would be hoisting us by our tails. It's like labor relations, when you stop to think about it, this war between dogs and cats. It's like the war between men and women, or between East and West. It's a struggle to keep our identity. Of course we don't have good will. That would ruin us. That's all for today, Dear Diary, because someone is coming and I must put you back in the sugar bowl.

But, I should like to direct our ...thinking at this Thanksgiving season ...in an entirely different line. I ...am convinced that the best time ...to give thanks is very often the ...very time when there are apparently the least obvious reasons for ...rejoicing. Frequently the most ...proper time to count our blessings is the very time when disillusionment and danger walk beside us. Let me point you to the life and experience of St. Paul for a convincing illustration of this truth. At the time when St. Paul spoke the words of our text, he was a prisoner of the Roman empire. He had just experienced a hazardous and distressing sea voyage which ended in a major tragedy. During that voyage he had suffered persecution, endured the ridicule and scoffing of the sailors and fellow passengers. He was under no illusion regarding what was awaiting him when he arrived in the Imperial City—most certainly imprisonment, likely harsh and cruel punishment, and probably execution at the guillotine. Yes, Paul knew full well that going to Rome as a prisoner was a gravely dangerous business. Yet St. Paul met that with an unconquerable Christian spirit of thanksgiving.

The author of the book of Acts gives this attitude of St. Paul's a special significance by the sentence which precedes the text, and the one which follows it. In the former the author describes how the brethren came out from Rome to meet Paul, and then the record says, "he gave thanks, and took courage." The sentence which follows describes Paul's imprisonment. There is present here something extremely realistic and intensely reassuring in the way the author puts these two facts together—praise and arrest, gratitude and imprisonment, thanks and danger. But, that was the picture of life for St. Paul. It was a picture of realistic human life in the age in which St. Paul lived. But it also demonstated St. Paul's religious faith at its best. Is it not also the picture of realistic human life in this rather grim and uncertain year in which we live?

At this time, so fraught with uncertainty, we need to face life with the same kind of Christian courage and faith so nobly exemplified by St. Paul. We must face the disappointments of our day with a religious faith which is fully acquainted with all its dangers, but which at the same time is fearless in its thought and practice of thanksgiving. For we live in a day in which we must face the present with a faith which looks at both sides of the ledger of life. We must face, realistically, all the disillusionment that has stalked through the year—a year of terrible confusion, intense unrest and strife, and severe tensions. A year of privation, sacrifice, and frustration. But, on the other hand, we must also face the genuine blessings constantly in our midst throughout the year. The blessing of unmolested hearths and friendly firesides. The blessings of unhindered religious liberty under the protection of our government. The blessings derived from strong humanitarian impulses which still reside within the hearts of our fellow citizens. The universal consciousness that God still reigns, and the prevalent desire of most Americans for a just and lasting peace.

Therefore, in the full knowledge that this year, for many of us, grim disappointment and uncertainty are the companion of our Thanksgiving. Yet, we surely will want to affirm that truth, in the full knowledge that the spirit of thanksgiving and praise is the way that overcometh. St. Paul pointed the way in the spirit of his words, in our test—"He gave thanks, and took courage." Therefore, let every citizen of this land come before the presence of the Lord with praise and thanksgiving on their lips and in their hearts this Thanksgiving season. Then, may we go fotrh with courage to face the vicissitudes of the days and years that lie ahead.

This appeal was originated by the churches represented in the Church World Service organization. Protestant relief and reconstruction agency.

Purpose of Plan

Rev. Faulkner said, "The purpose is to give Protestants, together with all Americans of Christian conscience, a chance to restore the spiritual meaning of their national holiday and make it international in its significance."

Climax of the appeal will be an offering in local churches of the nation's communities at Thanksgiving services, he said. Contributions will either go to each denomination's postwar fund, or directly to Church World Service for immediate use, among other things, in supplying war orphans and starving children with the basic necessities of life. Other destitute peoples also will benefit from the personal relief and Christian reconstruction made possible by the funds.

Rev. Faulkner reported that the Church World Service board of directors authorized the appeal "when it seemed certain no governmental relief agency will be ready to function after UNRRA goes out of existence at the end of the year. Meanwhile, conditions in parts of Europe and Asia will be graver than ever this winter. The churches must assume a large share of the responsibility."

TRAIN MOVEMENTS REDUCED AT BUCYRUS

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Nov. 23—Movements of trains from the local New York Central yards were reduced Friday as the company sought to conserve its limited coal supply, according to information relayed by railroad officials.

The 20 trains operated out of Bucyrus each day have been cut to two and two of the company's six "locals" have been removed as a further conservation move. Trains leaving the yard Friday were only with full tonnage. Officials estimate that if the coal strike continues 10 more days approximately 125 engines will be removed from the pool here.

Local manufacturers will not immediately be hampered by the limited supply since little of the local work depends upon coal for operation of the the plants. Several use only coal for heating. Some plants look upon the rail embargo as more threatening than the coal strike.

Coal Rationed Here

Meanwhile, Marion coal dealers reported their coal piles were dwindling. Some dealers said they were rationing their coal by limiting customers to one ton. One dealer reported he was entirely out, and although he has had three carloads on order for some time, his orders have not been filled.

At Marion City hospital, where the coal supply was limited to 10 days, E. O. Uncapher, safety-service director, said today he would be able, through priorities, to get an additional 10 days' supply, enough to run the hospital to about Dec. 15.

Radio Strike Called Off but Walkout Threat Lingers On

The threat of a strike by radio performers still remained but leaders of the AFL American Federation of Radio Artists postponed the walkout pending further contract negotiations with the four major networks. A decision was to be announced Monday. Earlier AFRA members in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco voted to strike. And a walkout had been set for midnight tomorrow.

One of the country's longest strikes continued today as members of local 378 of the CIO United Auto Workers in Rockford, Ill., voted not to return to work at the J. I. Case Co. farm machinery plant pending settlement of all issues involved in the walkout which started last Christmas. About 800 workers are involved in the wage dispute.

In the near seven-months-old strike by CIO-UAW at the Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co. in West Allis, Wis., an international union spokesman said all CIO locals in the Milwaukee area had been asked to participate Monday in a demonstration at the huge plant. A CIO leader said "there will be no "rough stuff" at the plant. Earlier this month there were several flareups of violence as pickets engaged in fights with workers and police and sheriff's officers.

Anthracite Miners Returning to Work

By The Associated Press

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 23—Anthracite miners were returning to the collieries today in increasing numbers following a walkout of approximately 10,000 hard coal mine workers in sympathy with striking soft coal miners.

Members of the Loomis local voted to return but telegraphed UMW chief John L. Lewis, in the event he is jailed, to "make room in the prison for 700 workers."

Nationwide Teachers' Organization Sought

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 23—Adam Nickum, 35, of Berea, founder of the United States Teachers association, says he proposes to establish a nationwide teachers' organization aimed at getting a minimum wage of $2,400 a year and other benefits.

The recently incorporated association will hold a meeting in Berea Dec. 2 to organize the first chapter. Nickum said 18 teachers from Berea and 14 others from neighboring villages attended a preliminary meeting and all but one agreed to join.

"We are for teacher welfare only, and not for educational research," he said. "Definitely we are against labor unions. There is no place for a labor union in the profession and there never will be."

TAYLOR RETURNED AS ENVOY TO VATICAN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—President Truman today directed Myron C. Taylor to return to the Vatican and resume for about 30 days his "mission in behalf of peace."

Taylor's purpose, as on previous missions, the President said in a statement issued by the White House, will be to "obtain for my guidance the counsel and cooperation of all men and women of good will whether in religion, in government, or in the pursuits of everyday life."

Taylor has served as personal representative to the Vatican for both Mr. Truman and the late President Roosevelt.

"As in the past he and I will, in our labors for peace, continue to welcome the advice of leaders in religion of all convictions and loyalties, however diverse, not only in this country but throughout the world," the statement added.

Taylor also will continue his efforts in reorganization of the Italian Red Cross and as chairman of American relief for Italy.

Taylor has been visiting in the United States for some time. Some Protestant organizations have protested to the President his retention as a permanent American representative to Pope Pius XII. The President has indicated Taylor's mission would be terminated when he deems the time appropriate.

Steubenville Police Promise New Raids

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 23—Continued raids to clear Steubenville of vice and gambling establishments were promised today by police authorities.

Both Police Chief Ross H. Cunningham and Sheriff Robert D. Bates asserted day and night checks would be made and "any suspicious man or woman without visible means of support will be apprehended."

Municipal Judge William D. Downer yesterday declared from the bench that "I strongly advise persons who are not wanted here to leave the city."

He made the statement after the first series of raids, following demands of pastors for a city-wide cleanup, resulted in two men being bound over to the Jefferson county grand jury and 12 other persons fined in municipal court.

RAINS CONTINUE IN LOS ANGELES AREA

By The Associated Press

Showers in Southern California continued today as a fierce windstorm that swept the West Coast moved out of the United States up to Vancouver, Canada.

Although the U. S. weather bureau at Chicago said that rain would abate in northern California today, it was due to continue in Washington and Oregon.

Snow flurries in the higher altitudes of the Rocky Mountain region marked the weather picture there, with colder temperatures expected to the northern sections tonight and tomorrow.

Clouds, and snow flurries late tonight were expected in the northern great plains regions, but forecasters predicted fair and mild weather in the south and central plains. Falling temperatures were expected in Nebraska late tomorrow.

Increasing cloudiness, with a rise in the thermometers was foreseen for the Appalachian chain, but the eastern seaboard will have fair weather and more cold weather tonight.

PLANE

plane when the generals' B-17 edged down between towering peaks to an altitude of about 1,000 feet. One, believed to have been the pilot, Capt. Ralph Tate Jr., ran a short distance and lit a flare on the ice.

The plane, General Snavely said, had ploughed into a snowbank about three feet deep in a glacial "bowl" 800 to 1,000 feet deep and about 2,000 feet wide.

Interrupted radio messages from the plane, which Snavely confirmed, indicated that most of the passengers might have found shelter inside the plane cabin.

Hints of another tragedy in the search for the wrecked transport sent mountaineers from Grenoble eastward into the Sept Laux mountain range southeast of this section, where the original search was concentrated. Power-station workers said they heard the explosion of a plane and later saw a huge smoke column.

It was believed at Grenoble that a search plane might have crashed, but there was no confirmation of this. U. S. headquarters said it had no report of any missing planes.

Mackenzie Calls Ex-Red's Charge Blunt, Startling

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

That was blunt and startling language by Louis F. Budenz, the former Communist leader, when he testified before the house committee on un-American activities in Washington yesterday that the Soviet government "is engaged in a war of nerves against the United States" that "could go to military conflict."

DewittMackenzie

"We are dealing with a conspiracy to establish Soviet dictatorship throughout the world," declared Budenz, and added that Moscow continues to give instructions to the Communist party abroad.

Moscow certainly may be expected to challenge the statement that the Soviet is "engaged in a war of nerves against the United States," and undoubtedly will take exception to the term "conspiracy."

However, it would be surprising if Russia denied that it was trying to spread Communism to the four corners of the globe.

There never has been any secret about the Muscovite intention to communize the world. The banner of "world revolution" was flung to the breeze even as the Bolsheviks won their rebellion against the Czarist regime. The Comintern, or Third Internationale, was established in Moscow to act as general staff for this mighty drive.

However, world revolution didn't prosper, but on the contrary stirred fierce animosities in western nations. The Bolshevist drive was responsible for the rupture of relations between Moscow and both Britain and the United States.

Stalin Kills Comintern

When the Comintern failed, Stalin decided to relegate it to the background for the time being. He inaugurated the policy of making Russia strong industrially and militarily.

Finally came the German-Russian non-aggression pact which was a prelude to the invasion of Poland and the Second World War. Later the Soviet became one of the Allies, and in 1943 Stalin announced the abolishment of the Comintern which had been such a thorn in the side of Britain and America. Washington officialdom was pleased. Elimination of the Comintern was taken as an implied promise that with the defeat of the Axis no attempt would be made to place the countries of Europe under a Communist dictatorship from Moscow.

Rose was non-committal about President Truman's immediate plans, if any, for a press conference, or whether he would call in his cabinet in advance of the usual Friday session.

By The Associated Press

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 23—About 190 bus and street-car operators employed by the city lines of West Virginia voted last night to continue a strike which has paralyzed transportation in this city a week.

William L. Robinson of Pittsburgh, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes (AFL) said the strikers were holding out for payment of wages lost during the period they have been idle.

The company said it had offered to reinstate eight operators whose dismissal led to the walkout.

B. J. Zewski of Clarksburg, general manager of city lines, said other concessions had been offered, including meal reliefs of 15 to 30 minutes and proposals involving late "owl" runs and extra trips.

Ohio Miners, Operators Mark Time Till Monday

By The Associated Press

BELLAIRE, O., Nov. 23—Ohio's coal miners and operators marked time today awaiting Monday's showdown in Washington, where John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers faces a contempt citation in connection with the soft coal work stoppage.

The Central Ohio Coal Co. was permitted by the UMW to reopen one mine to supply coal to Zanesville district power plants, and Adolph Pacifico, head of the UMW's District 6, said hospitals and similar institutions with less than ten days' supply could make application to the solid fuels' administration for emergency deliveries.

FRANCE VOTES FOR PARLIAMENT SUNDAY

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Nov. 23—The French people vote tomorrow in the first step toward the election of parliament's second house, in a ballot which may decide whether the Communists will head the first government of the Fourth republic.

The voters will choose 84,000 members of electoral colleges to convene Dec. 8—in France's various cantons to elect 200 of the 315 members of the council of the Republic. The council is the second house of parliament which will join with the National assembly in January to elect the president of the Fourth republic.

The importance of tomorrow's balloting far exceeds the importance of the council itself, which has very little power. It cannot enact legislation. It can only propose laws to the national assembly elected Nov. 10. It can only make recommendations on laws passed by the assembly.

France is confronted, however, with the fact that the Communists are the largest single party in the national assembly and by virtue of this ballot box triumph are claiming the premiership for Communist leader Maurice Thorez.

Leaders of the MRP (popular Republican movement) admit their chances of blocking this Communist bid for power will be far more difficult if the Communists emerge with the largest popular vote tomorrow.

GIRL IS OHIO FUGITIVES' DECOY. Four Ohio Reformatory's Grafton camp fugitives and their 17-year-old Medina county gun girl sit in a Lancaster jail cell as authorities prepare to file kidnaping charges against them. In Memory
★Of our son, Richard A. Griffith, who died two years ago November 23.

I often think I see his smiling face
As he bade his last goodbye,
And he left his home forever,
In a distant land to die.

You went, it seems but yesterday,
And now by crosses row on row,
You linger where the poppies grow,
Not dead, but just away.

Mother and Father,
Brothers, Ted and Jack.

For the one I loved so well.

Sadly missed by wife,
Mrs. William Collins.

CABBIES GUN FOR 5TH WIN TONIGHT

Entertain Worthington in Next to Last Game.

Marion's Safety Cab A.C.'s will play the Worthington Independents tonight at Harding Stadium. The kickoff will be at 8:30.

This will be the twelfth game of the Cabbies' initial season and they will be trying for their fifth win. So far, the newly organized Safety Cab team has won four, lost six, and tied one. Should they win this and the next one, they will finish the season with a .500 average. Their final opponent is the 740 A. C.'s undefeated Columbus champions.

The Worthington club promises to be a real match for the Cabbies, having been undefeated at the time they were scheduled and having posted a win over the runner up for the Capitol city championship. Also their line will be on a par with Marion's averaging about 200 pounds per man.

The line started against Cincinnati by the Cabbies averaged close to 210 pounds. This average was helped because two of the "little" men of the squad, 280-pound Lester Russel and 250-pound Bob Dull.

The Marion club has been unable to hold a practice session since the Dakotas game but will meet at the stadium for a skull session before the contest.

Another new development for tonight's game is the presence of four officials, three of them from out of town. They will be H. T. "Bud" McMillen, of Delaware; Herbert Meinhold, of Columbus; Herman Mitchel, of Columbus; and Pete Howison of Marion.

The probable starting line ups are: Marion—Richards and Roseberry,ends; Fate and Russel or Samples, tackles; Strobel and Dull, guards; Benson, center; Simmons, quarterback; Williams and Ivey, halfbacks; Harvey, fullback.

For Worthington — Quelette and D. Russell, ends; F. Brown and B. Brown, tackles; B. Zimmerman and Prondley, guards; Shiffley, center; Dietzel, quarterback; Cotter and Hall, halfs; Fields, fullback.

Wolves Scent Rose Bowl As They Tangle with Buckeyes

Could Play at Pasadena Jan. 1 if Wildcats Knock Off Front-Running Illinois.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 23—Twice-beaten but mighty Michigan, hopeful of a Rose Bowl bid, and an unpredictable Ohio State team, trying for a victory it values above all others, meet at 2 p. m. today before a homecoming crowd expected to total 78,000.

"The game has been a sell-out since last July, and promises to be the biggest gate of a record-year for attendance in Ohio's huge horseshoe. Together, the two Western conference rivals already have drawn more than a million fans this season.

The weather promised to be cold and dry.

Michigan, with an attack featuring Bob Chappuis, the Big Nine leader in passing and rushing, was rated a favorite over the Bucks, whose chief threats are the line smashing of fullback Joe Whisler and the passing of quarterback George Spencer.

A loss today automatically would put Michigan out of the running for the Western conference championship and the Rose Bowl bid which now goes with the title.

If the visiting Wolverines win, however, the championship will be in doubt for about a half hour after the game here ends, while Illinois and Northwestern complete play at Evanston, Ill. If Michigan wins, Illinois must win to keep its undisputed place at the top of the Big Nine.

In the announced starting lineups, Ohio State's line outweighed Michigan's 201 pounds a man to 186. The Bucks' backfield averaged 193 to Michigan's 180.

Probable starting lineups:

FELLER PAYS SOCIAL CALL AT CLEVELAND

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 23—Back in Cleveland today after a barnstorming tour and exhibition games in Hawaii, fireballer Bobby Feller of the Indians said he was unworried about his new contract.

Emphasizing he was not here to discuss contract matters with Indian President Bill Veeck, Feller said:

"We talked about it some last spring, but I'm not worried about terms."

He planned to return to his home in Waukegan, Ill., after witnessing the Plain Dealer charity game today and the Cleveland Browns tussle with Buffalo tomorrow.

The highest paid hurler in the history of baseball, the speedball artist was believed to have received more than $50,000 last season from the Indians. Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

BIXLER HASN'T HEARD ABOUT COLGATE JOB

O.S.U. Coach Denies Coaching Post Offered to Him.

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 23—Coach Paul Bixler, Ohio State mentor, informed that his name had been mentioned prominently yesterday in speculation over a successor to Coach Andy Kerr of Colgate last night declared "I have not been approached."

Kerr is expected here today to scout several players of the Ohio State and Michigan teams as possible material for his Eastern team in the annual New Year's Day Shrine game in San Francisco against an all-star West squad.

Bixler served as head basketball coach and assistant football coach at Colgate in 1939-40.

Also mentioned as possible candidates are Ed Tryon, head coach at Hobart College; John DaGrossa, Holy Cross mentor; Charles Solem, Franklin and Marshall coach; Clarey Anderson, Montclair (N. J.) High School coach; Steve Kuk, coach at Blair (N. J.) Academy; George Hauser, assistant to Bernie Bierman at Minneapolis, and Dan Portman, long-time star of the National League Chicago Bears.

To Ask Raise

"Most Valuable" Musial To Hit Cards for More Dough.

By The Associated Press

DONORA, Pa., Nov. 23 — Sam Breadon might as well be prepared. Stan Musial, the St. Louis Cardinals' hard-hitting first baseman, is going to ask his boss for a raise and perhaps for a two or three-year contract before the world champions depart for their spring training camp in Florida.

The National league's leading batsman, with a .365 average, revealed yesterday that he was thinking in terms of more cash after receiving word that he had been voted the senior circuit's most valuable player for the second time in his four-year major league career.

Prexies Practice for First Cage Game with Delaware

Just one week from the time the Prexies will open their cage season, Coach D. N. Bohyer says that he has over a dozen men who are still eligible to membership on the first string varsity squad. Five players show promise but will not be eligible for the opening game Friday night against Delaware at the Edison gymnasium.

Coach Bohyer's prospects of having a better team than last season are good, provided the tall boys who are out can produce. If not, the veteran Prexie mentor will have to, as he did in the last season, rely on smaller more aggressive eagers.

Picks Varsity Squad

Last night Bohyer worked out a squad of approximately 16 boys who will probably form the varsity squad for the opening game and this morning another squad which will form the reserves held a workout.

Commenting on the coming basketball season, the coach said, at an earlier date, that he could say more around March 21 when the tournaments are over. The Prexies will have two letter winners with the squad this season. These boys are Jim Riley and Henry Fields, both seniors. Other seniors out for the squad are Jack Burns, Jim Kraner, Bill England, Glen Massie, John Courtright, Dick Armbruster, Don West, Jim Murphy, Herb Phillians, Bob Drake, and Don Zeisler.

Reserve Squad Listed

Sophomores, from whom the reserve squad will be formed, are: Dick Clark, Fred Crawler, Dick Latimore, Ronald Ainey, Dick Thomas, Dick Fairchild, Dick Roseberry, Tom Taylor, Jack Bishop, Roger Andrews, Don Johnson, and Ray Phillians.

Although the Prexies will have a slightly tougher schedule than the one last year, in which they dropped eight games, won four, and then were bested in a close tournament game with Columbus North, the outlook is not discouraging. Coach Bohyer believes that against tough opposition the boys will be giving more than if they were playing a snap schedule.

Chips Down Tomorrow in Both Professional Football Leagues

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—First place in the eastern division will be at stake tomorrow when the New York Giants and Pittsburgh Steelers lead the National League football teams into the final two weeks of a record breaking season.

Seemingly assured of the eastern title a week ago, the Giants lost ground when the winless Boston Yanks held them to a 28-28 tie while the Steelers moved up within a half game of the Giants by pulling a surprise 10-7 win over the Philadelphia Eagles.

Sharing the spotlight with the Giant-Steeler affair, are the Washington - Philadelphia game and the Chicago Cardinals-Packers game at Green Bay. Lingering title hopes of the Redskins, Eagles and Packers will be at stake in these two battles.

The Redskins, who have lost one game more and won one less than the Giants, will be strengthened by the return of Slingin' Sammy Baugh.

The Packers still have a slim chance to overtake the Chicago Bears for the western title. To do so, they must sweep games with the Cardinals, Redskins and Los Angeles Rams while the Bears are winning only one game of two with Detroit and the Cardinals.

Bob Waterfield leads the Rams into Boston for a pitching duel with Paul Governali while the Detroit Lions will try for their second victory of the season against the Bears in Chicago.

In the All-America conference, the spotlight will be focused on Cleveland as the Buffalo Bisons try to delay the Browns' clinching of the western division. The New York Yankees have already captured the eastern championship.

A victory will put the Browns out of reach of Los Angeles, San Francisco and Chicago, all of whom have a chance for second place money.

The Yankees will attempt to stretch their winning streak to six games against the Chicago Rockers at Yankee stadium while it will be the triple-threat talents of Glenn Dobbs of Brooklyn against the passing of Frankie Albert of San Francisco at Ebbets Field.

30 Cage Hopefuls Bid at Mt. Gilead

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD — Approximately 30 players reported for the first basketball practice at Mt. Gilead this week according to Robert Blose, coach. Among the group were two varsity letterwinners from last year, Dick Campbell and Junior Dix. Also present was Pete Campbell, letterman at Edison last year.

The group was broken down into three squads with Blose taking the varsity, Richard King the Jayvee squad and D. B. Noble the Freshman squad. Blose stated that his squad would have plenty of height this year though he hesitated to make any predictions for the coming season.

The Indians open their season with a game in the local gymnasium on Tuesday night, Dec. 3, against Fredericktown. The game will also be the seasons opener for the Freddies.

O.W.U. Leads in Everything But Score at Rollins Tilt

By The Associated Press

Ohio Wesleyan's Bishops outgained Rollins college last night on the ground and in the air two to one, but lost at Orlando, Fla., 21-13; and in the only collegiate game in Ohio Defiance whitewashed Cedarville 30-0.

The Tars overcame a first-quarter deficit to go ahead with touchdowns in the second and third quarter. The Bishops scored in the final period, but in trying to overcome a one-point edge held by the Florida eleven, tossed a fluke pass which the Tars intercepted for a touchdown.

Defiance, last of Ohio's collegiate teams to have an unbeaten-untied season record spoiled, closed its campaign with its sixth victory in eight starts in a homecoming contest before 2,000 fans.

Quarterback Vern Snyder made Defiance's first two touchdowns through the line from inside the Cedarville ten-yard stripe. Chuck Zacharich scored in the second half the same way. A 64-yard pass play, Bob Rex to Lloyd Pixley, and a 20-yard runback of an intercepted pass by Jack Behringer accounted for Defiance's other scores.

Irked Southern Cal. May Quit Pacific Loop in Bowl Protest

By The United Press

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23—Possible withdrawal of Southern California from the Pacific Coast Conference was under heated discussion yesterday by alumni groups which urged the drastic action in protest against a pact with the Big Nine which froze Army's football team out of the Rose Bowl.

The alumni called a meeting to appoint a committee which will be asked to study possible withdrawal from the conference, after which the school would operate as a powerful far western independent, a "Notre Dame of the Pacific."

Official comment was tempered over the fact that the item of first consideration today was Saturday's football game between Southern California and U. C. L. A., the winner of which will represent the Pacific Conference in the much discussed Rose Bowl game.

"Saturday's game comes first," a spokesman for U. C. L. A. said. "We'll stay in the conference and play it the way the score indicates. The deal is made and we're going ahead with our plans."

Southern California spokesmen pointed out that the Rose Bowl game was more a part of that school's past than any other and that it wouldn't be wise to take any hasty action which would force withdrawal from that classic. Southern California has appeared in the Rose Bowl nine times and had a perfect record of eight victories and no defeats until trampled by Alabama in the 1946 game.

REORGANIZATION OF OHIO LIBRARY SYSTEM URGED

Further State Aid Sought on County Basis.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Nov 23—A reorganization of the present library system, largely on a county basis a state-aid financial program providing possibly $500 000 a year, and establishment of standards for librarians will be suggested to the new general assembly in January by the Ohio Library Survey Commission.

The commission agreed yesterday to submit the three bills to the legislature and adjourned until Dec 6 and 7.

The state now contributes $50 000 a year to libraries. Under the proposed bills up to $500 000 in state aid would be sought for distribution under a plan similar to the state aid program for public schools.

The suggested legislation would require new libraries to offer county-wide service to be eligible for financial aid, but would not cut off help for any library now in operation, however small.

'Deception' On Screen at Ohio

Bette Davis, Paul Henreid and Claude Rains in Film Here Through Monday.

"Deception," a romantic drama starring Bette Davis, Paul Henreid and Claude Rains, is now playing through Monday at the Ohio theater.

In the story Bette Davis portrays Christine Radcliffe, a pianist, who finds her happy marriage with Karel Novak, a talented Czech cellist, played by Paul Henreid, threatened by a past that involves her relationship with another man, played by Claude Rains. He is a composer and conductor. As things progress, it remains for Christine to untangle her romantic involvements as best she can in order to marry Karel. Her way, however, follows the easiest path and what begins as the first important lie grows into a web of deception which soon cuts off her life from that of the two men.

"My Darling Clementine," directed by John Ford who won three Academy Awards, stars Linda Darnell, Henry Fonda and Victor Mature. It will be shown for seven days starting Tuesday.

The film, based on real-life characters, recounts the story of Wyatt Earp, famed marshal of Tombstone, Arizona, in the fall of 1881, and his spectacular fight to bring law and order to the Southwest. Henry Fonda is cast as Wyatt Earp, and Victor Mature as the reckless, gunshooting "Doc" Holliday. Linda Darnell is seen as the fiery cafe singer, Chihuahua.

Wyatt Earp, as marshal, cleaned up Dodge city and Wichita and then went to Tombstone to score a victory over the Clanton gang in a gun duel now told in many ballads. "Doc" Holliday ran the town before Earp took over. Featured in supporting roles are Walter Brennan, Tim Holt and Cathy Downs.

Penny Supper Held By P.-T.A. at Martel

A meeting of Martel school P.-T. A. held Tuesday night, Nov. 19, at the school was preceded by a penny supper and an auction. The proceeds from the auction will go into a fund to buy items for use in the school.

Elmer Leathem was in charge of the meeting which opened with devotions consisting of group singing and Scripture and prayer by Lowell Sharrock. Dale Porter chairman of the program committee, introduced the following program: three numbers by the girls' glee club; exercise by the seventh and eighth grades; two numbers by the boys' quartet; recitation, Thanksgiving Day," by Roger Augenstein; two numbers by the boys' glee club; and a song, "Over the River and Through the Woods," by the seventh and eighth grades with the audience joining in. Prayer by Mr. Sharrock closed the program

New British Star Featured In Musical Film at Palace

"No Leave, No Love," a gay musical comedy which will be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Palace theater, introduces to the American screen the British singing star, Pat Kirkwood, who is starred with Van Johnson and Keenan Wynn. Musical numbers are played by Xavier Cugat and his orchestra and Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians.

Short features to be shown will include a technicolor cartoon, "Jailbreak," and the latest news.

Van Johnson is seen in the role of a young Marine hero who is willing to trade in a Congressional Medal for the love of his childhood sweetheart. However, Pat Kirkwood as mistress of ceremonies on a radio broadcasting program, joins with Keenan Wynn to prevent Johnson from returning to his home in Indiana and discovering that his girl has jilted him and married someone else.

In the course of events, Edward Arnold, who heads the supporting cast becomes involved with a Russian Countess, Pat runs a hectic romance race with her Indiana rival, and Keenan Wynn is driven to take over his pal Johnson's name and honors with the result that both end up in the guardhouse.

The first motion picture adaptation of Richard Henry Dana's immortal classic of the sea, "Two Years Before the Mast," opens Thursday at the Palace. It has been scheduled to continue through Wednesday, Dec. 4. Starred are Alan Ladd, Brian Donlevy, William Bendix and Barry Fitzgerald, with Howard da Silva, Esther Fernandez, Albert Dekker, Luis Van Rooten and Darryl Hickman heading the supporting cast.

"Two Years Before the Mast" describes the voyage of the devilship "Pilgrim" from Boston to San Francisco around Cape Horn. Brian Donlevy, as the author-seaman, Dana, and Alan Ladd as the ship owner's son, are among the unfortunates on board. It tells of the inhuman treatment handed out to the crew by a conscienceless captain, obsessed only with the thought of setting a new time record for the run.

Ladd, hardened by the rugged life at sea, leads the men in mutiny when they can take no more of brutality and famine. He then prevails upon them to return to port with the ship and vindicate themselves before the American people.

William Bendix is cast as the rough first mate who reluctantly carries out the orders of Howard da Silva, the captain. Barry Fitzgerald is seen as an Irish cook who supplies the humor.

Short subjects will be a technicolor novelty, "Golden Slippers," a technicolor cartoon, "Jasper in a Jam," and the latest news.

Proclamation Issued For Thanksgiving Day

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O. Nov. 23—Gov. Lausche yesterday issued a proclamation fixing Thursday, Nov. 28, as Thanksgiving day.

"Frank James" On Marion Bill

Gene Tierney, Henry Fonda Star in Film Coming Sunday.

"The Return of Frank James" starring Gene Tierney and Henry Fonda, and "Johnny Comes Flying Home" with Richard Crane, Faye Marlowe, Martha Stewart and Charles Russell will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Marion theater.

One of the greatest Westerns ever filmed, the former picture brings to a climax the adventures of the two brothers, Jesse and Frank James, who were the world's most notorious outlaws. It tells the story of Frank's exploits on avenging the murder of his brother. The latter is the story of three ex-flyers who are bored and restless in their civilian jobs and decide to start their own air freight line.

The double feature for Tuesday and Wednesday will be "The Searching Wind" starring Robert Young, Sylvia Sidney and Ann Richards, and "It Shouldn't Happen To A Dog" with Carole Landis and Allyn Joslyn.

The former picture, based on Lillian Hellman's hit play, is a dramatic story of a world figure, an American diplomat, whose mis-handling of the destinies of nations was a reflection of his inability to solve his own muddled life. The story in the latter is of a newspaper reporter who, in an attempt to score a page one crime scoop, sets out after a gang of black marketeers, only to find himself entangled with the law in the person of a glamorous lady cop and her dog.

"The El Paso Kid" starring Sunset Carson, and "Bringing Up Father" with Joe Yule as Jiggs and Renie Riano as Maggie will be shown Thursday through Saturday.

The latter picture tells of the experiences and happenings in the lives of Maggie and Jiggs, the famous comic strip characters, now brought to the screen and written by George McManus, who also appears in the film.

During 1945, the United States imported industrial diamonds worth $12,759,973.

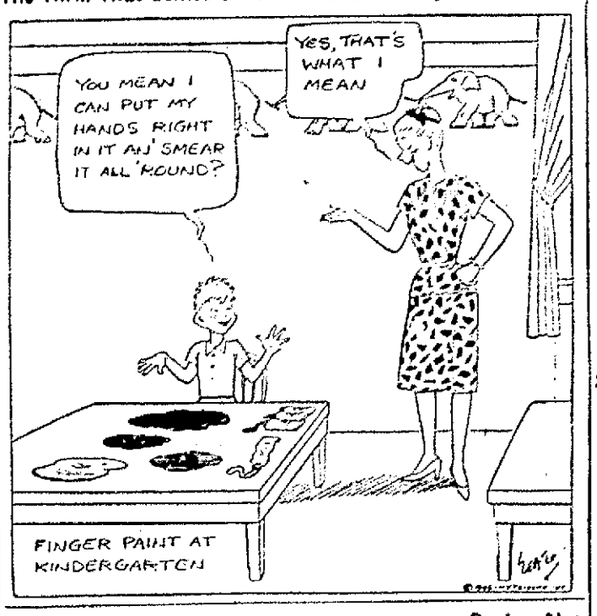
The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime

By H. T. Webster



LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"COME on in and I'll divulge the secret," I whispered back with grandiose mockery, and Katharine came noiselessly through the door and close up to my chair.

"I gather you don't want the door closed," she murmured.

"Indeed I don't," I said, "and what I'm doing is exceedingly childish. I am pre-empting a box seat for the passage through the hall of the grand council, hoping to glean some faint idea of what they're planning to do. Then I won't be so completely at sea."

Supposed to Understand

"When they spring some crazy stunt on you that you're supposed to understand intuitively," she said, "I do wish I could stay with you and eavesdrop too. I don't know of anything I'd like better to do, but Dr. Twitchell is waiting for me to get Sam settled for the night. Incidentally, I'd like to find out what arrangements your father has made for somebody outside the door tonight. I don't like the idea of taking care of that bozo with nobody within call."

"I'll see to that," I said with determination in my muted voice. "I'll also see to it that you don't have to sit up all night without a relief watch. You're dead on your feet as it is."

"And you're petrified clear to your neck," she retorted. "Only your brain is working. So, don't add me to your worries. But I must fly. So long!"

Caught at Dress

But I caught at her dress.

"You can't, I whispered. "I hear footsteps coming down the attic stairs."

"You're right," she whispered back. "Put your hanky over your nose and mouth and forget to breathe until they get out of earshot again."

I obeyed her, and we held our breathe while the little procession filed past our door. But before they reached us we could hear the sound of their muted voices, and even distinguish some of the words.

"We shall need every one of the guards outside," my father was saying. "It's providential we brought those three from New York tonight. We can use every one of the six. And in here, you, 'K,' Harry and Jim probably can take care of any emergency. But that leaves nobody to watch over Katharine with Sam, or Lillian with the Brixton women. I must get hold of my daughter and Katharine. I wonder where they are."

Settling the Brixtons

"Katharine is probably with Brixton," Harry answered, "and Madge with Lillian, settling the Brixtons, mother and daughter, for the night. Shall I look them up for you and send them down to you?"

His tone was almost too casual, and I caught my breath in dismay. But my father was answering him, and I strained my ears for the rejoiner.

"If you will, please," my father said. "But do not let Lillian leave the Brixtons. In fact, I do not want any of the women around downstairs tonight. It will be too dangerous. However, we may have to have them."

"Both your daughter and Mrs. Bickett are worth two ordinary men in an emergency," "Mr. K." said emphatically.

"That they are," Harry Underwood commented. "When they and my spouse are working together and in good form, they're three of a kind, to beat any two pair of desperadoes in the round world."

Pounding Pulses

They had come to a halt almost outside the door of my room, and I felt as if they could hear my pounding pulses. Then my father spoke again, a bit impatiently, and I knew that he did not quite relish Harry's monologue, not because he begrudged any praise to Lillian, but because he felt that "time was of the essence."

"'K' and I will go on down," he said. "Please get hold of Margaret and Katharine as soon as possible, and bring them down to me in the hall."

"I'll do that little thing," Harry said, turning and walking toward my father's suite where Katharine was supposed to be watching over Sam Brixton. But I noticed that he walked much more slowly than is usual with him, and when my father's voice sounded from the lower hall, he came back swiftly to my open door.

"'Come out from behind dose bushes, Pocohontas,'" he whispered. "'You is diskivered.'"

Four hundred persons lost their lives, 600,000 were made homeless, and property damage of more than $200,000,000 was caused in the 1927 Mississippi flood.
